Airways 101 Respiratory assistance

Airways 101 is a blend of natural herbs to assist a horse's respiratory system function to the capacity intended. Exercise-induced pulmonary hemorrhage (EIPH), or lung bleeding, and inflammatory airway disease (IAD) are by far the most common respiratory problems. Only a small percentage (less than 10%) bleed through their nose (epistaxis). A diagnosis of IAD is often made by visualizing excess secretions or mucus in the trachea post exercise. Affected horses may also cough intermittently. The atmosphere and general environment of the modern world now results in many breathing concerns which were much less common in past generations.

Feeding Airways 101 may reduce or eliminate lung bleeding, stable cough, heaves or wheezing. Airways 101 may reduce the effects of allergies in the those high risk seasons when pollens aggravate the respiratory system
